A synopsis of wisdom gained from the lives and experiences of true gentlemen who discovered that developing a personal style is worth a grown man's time.

For grandmothers of the world who want to give support their young men and women. A gift of the research in this book will help develop and instill a vision of the ideal.

The purpose of this book is to specifically present information that will give young men a leading edge in life—especially in the ladies department. All a man has to do is behave a little better than is absolutely necessary. Paying attention to a few details will make him stand out from all the rest and attract women.

Based on a survey taken from women of every age and gender, the results about what women prefer are here presented in three parts:

Part 1 Women Prefer Attractive Men – Covers man's innate nature to seek beauty, the dignity of impeccable cleanliness, man's love for attractive women reversed, insights from the Cary Grant style and expert clothiers, survey of what women prefer in men, the finest vs. the sleaziest, the importance of beauty in space, light and color, being a leading man and attractive on purpose.

Part 2 Women Prefer Well Dressed Men – Covers the science of personal dress for men, a mathematical formula for correct dress, applied money-saving common-sense approach to dress, a man's best colors, best clothing lines based on his body shape and the coloring of his hair, skin and eyes, and wardrobe tips from the finest clothiers in the business who knew and dressed the wisest of gentlemen.

Part 3 Women Prefer Gentlemen – Covers male and female relationship, what women remember, itemized manners and table etiquette that reveal a man's charm, charming conversation, protocol of introductions in social exchange, developing magnetism and the art of self-confidence.

The nature of man is to respond to the finer sensibilities; the good, the true and the beautiful. To further create and nurture these ideals is the purpose of this book.
